Future Plans

$BabyHands is a platform created to begin making our dApps applications, we are looking for a community to gain around the token to help us gain trust in the market and also a community behind us to back our project!

We have many future dApps ideas, our first will be

BabyLock

BabyLock will be a liquidity locker created for people using the Binance Smart Chain to start up their token to lock their liquidity into so that the community gain some trust towards their project. We will also be having a presale feature so people are able to begin a presale project of our very own dApps.

This will be our first project and we will work with the community to decide which other dApps we should create
